About the Institute

The Chair of English Philology was founded in 1995. In the 2000/2001 academic year the Chair was transformed into the Institute of English Studies.

The Institute is divided into five distinct Sections, which broadly reflect the areas of academic research of the staff

- the Section of Applied Linguistics
- the Section of Theoretical Linguistics and history of the language
- the Section of Literary and Culture Studies
- the Section of Translation Studies
- the Section of Specialized Languages

The Institute offers undergraduate and postgraduate studies:

- a three-year BA course for regular and extramural students offering two specializations: The Theories and Methods of Teaching English as a Foreign Language or Translation Studies
- a two-year MA course for regular and extramural students offering two specializations: The Theories and Methods of Teaching English as a Foreign Language or Translation Studies
- postgraduated studies

Since 2000 the Institute has been publishing a journal Studia Anglica Resoviensia, since 2005 available only in an electronic version.
