

English Division of Medicine at The University of Rzeszów

The English Division of Medicine at The University of Rzeszów is now offering a 6 year program leading to the degree of Medical Doctor (M.D.). The English Division of Medicine follows in the tradition of our established Medical School for Polish students being taught in modern classrooms and laboratories by experienced medical faculty. This program is being offered to qualified international high school graduates who have demonstrated excellence in the biological and physical sciences and are capable of undergoing preclinical and clinical medical training in spoken and written English. Candidates will be evaluated for admission based on their academic history and an interview that will assess knowledge in biology, chemistry, physics, and English language.
