Mr Prof. Sylwester Czopek, PhD Rector of the University of Rzeszów

Mr
Marcin Ochab, Ph.D., Eng.
Rector's Representative for Cybersecurity

Dear Professor,

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to you for the participation and commitment of Mr Marcin Ochab during the seminar "Improving cyber resilience among IK operators", which took place on 13 and 14 May this year at the Chancellery of the Prime Minister. Dr Ochab's contribution in presenting a live simulation of an attack and response to hacking of IT and OT systems in real time was particularly valuable. The simulation was very well received by the participants of the meeting. It was important for them not only to observe how both systems could be hacked in reality, but also to realise that such situations could actually occur in times of increasingly frequent cyber threats.

Recently, the protection of critical infrastructure has become increasingly important. The exchange of information and good practices, including in the field of cybersecurity, plays a significant role in its development. That is why it is so important to increase the cyber resilience of CI operators, especially in terms of cyber threats related to the current geopolitical situation and changes resulting from the implementation of the CER and NIS2 directives.

I look forward to further cooperation on such valuable initiatives as this cybersecurity seminar.

Yours sincerely

Zbigniew Muszyński
