

Babiche Routledge

Babiche Routledge has worked for UNHCR, the United Nations Refugee Agency, for eight years and currently works as a Protection Officer in the Republic of Poland. Babiche leads the legal and policy team within the office in Warsaw focused on advancing inclusive and rights-based approaches to protection and asylum.

Babiche Routledge holds a Bachelor of Laws with a focus on EU, international and human rights law from the University of Kent and was called to the Bar of England and Wales in 2011. Prior to joining the United Nations, Babiche worked for various international organisations, NGOs and law firms in Asia and Europe.