

Dominika Zięba

Dominika Zięba, PhD, is a political scientist and Assistant Professor at the Institute of Political Science and Security Studies, University of Rzeszów. Her research interests focus on civic engagement and the functioning of political institutions at the local level. Before joining academia, she gained professional experience in local government administration, which provides a practical perspective to her scholarly work. She is a member of the Polish Political Science Association, the Polish Society of International Studies, and the Polish Society for Security Studies.