

Maciej Walkowski

Prof. dr hab. Maciej Walkowski Faculty of Political Science and Journalism AMU Poznan, Poland. Specializes in international economic relations and European integration issues, especially in research on globalization and regionalization processes and global problems, global economic and financial security, transnational corporations (TNC's) meaning and activity, South and East Asia region socio-economic development as well as socio-economic development of the European Union and Poland. Author and editor of more than 120 scientific publications (including 12 monographs) published in Polish, English and German. Author of several encyclopedic entries. Active participant in many domestic and international scientific conferences and congresses (papers, panels moderation, public debates participations etc.). Organizer or co-organizer of open lectures, professional training, courses and dozens of student conferences. Participant in international scientific exchange within international scientific internships. Executor or main executor of several significant national and international grants and other scientific and research projects. Under his guidance, the Jean Monnet Chair EU DYNAMICUS JM Chair project: European Union - Economic Development, Young Europeans and Innovations in Crisis Overcoming and Union's Sustainability was active from 2016 to 2019. Participant and coordinator of the prestigious research grant implemented at the AMU in Poznan: EU-Jean Monnet Center of Excellence EU EX/ACT 2018-2021 (EU external actions in the contested global order - (In)coherence, (dis)continuity, resilience). Awarded many times for his scientific, organizational and promotional work, including with a medal from the Polish National Education Commission.