

Zaruhi Margaryan

Zaruhi Margaryan graduated from the Armenian State Agrarian University and was awarded Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Food Technology. After graduation, she worked as a Senior Expert at the International Relations Department of the same University. As part of her job duties, she has coordinated several local and EU-funded projects with various European and non-European countries.

In 2022, Z. Margaryan graduated with honours from the Department of Political Sciences at the University of Naples Federico II, earning a Master's degree in International Relations with a thesis focused on the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict. She is currently a PhD student in Public Policy of Cohesion and Convergence in the European Scenario at the same department. Her current research focuses on EU enlargement, EU-Armenia relations, EU normative power, geopolitical dynamics in the South Caucasus, Armenia's foreign policy and post-2020 geopolitical reorientation and balancing strategies.